

Christodoulakis George , Secretary of State for Asset Restructuring and Privatizations of Greece

George Christodoulakis was born in 1968 in Chania, Crete. He is the Secretary of State for Asset Restructuring and Privatizations of Greece and an Associate Professor of Finance at Manchester Business School, University of Manchester, UK. He was formerly employed as an Advisor to the Bank of Greece, an academic at Cass Business School of City University, London and the University of Exeter, UK, and as an advisor in the international financial sector. He holds a PhD and MSc degrees in Quant Finance from the University of London, as well as MSc and BSc degrees in Economics and Econometrics from the Athens University of Economics and Business. His expertise concerns the analysis, forecasting and pricing of risk, including credit and market risk, as well as systemic financial stability and regulation. George Christodoulakis has published research work in leading international refereed journals and is the book editor of The Analytics of Risk Model Validation, published by Elsevier in 2008.