

Maragkakis Konstantinos, Head of Communications, Stanleybet Group

Konstantinos Maragkakis has studied Political Science and International Affairs at the National and Kapodistrian University of Greece while he also holds an MA (summa cum laude) and MPhil in EU Studies and EU Political Economy from the same university. He has worked at the International and EU Studies faculty of the Department of Political Science from 1998 until 2003 and then as economic development consultant in Greece from 2003 until 2005. From 2005 he is based in Brussels where after a brief stint as economics advisor in the field of Research Policy to the European Commission, he has been working exclusively in the field of games of chance specializing in legal and regulatory issues surrounding gambling policy in the EU and various Member States. From 2007 he is the Head of Communications for the Stanleybet Group.