

Lambros Papadopoulos, Independent Analyst

Lambros Papadopoulos was over August 1998 - November 2012 a Managing Director at Citigroup, heading the coverage of the Greek equity market. He was widely recognized for his strong views on the Greek gaming sector and was consistently top ranked in the Extel and II surveys for Greece. Lambros was also the Head of Continental European Small and Mid Cap Research and a member of the Equity Research Operating Committee. Prior to joining Citigroup Lambros was in Ernst & Young's business valuation group (corporate finance) in London for five years. He is a qualified Chartered Accountant (ACA), having trained with the media and resources office of Ernst & Young in London. Lambros holds a first-class honours BA in accountancy with computing from the University of Kent. He is now pursuing other interests including non executive business and academic directorships.